Thibaut Rouffineau COO and Co-Founder Curb

Thibaut is a technologist and serial entrepreneur with over 15 years experience building and bringing disruptive mass market technologies. Currently Thibaut is on a mission to make it easier for all of us to lead a healthier life. Over the years Thibaut has managed global teams building products and services across markets, assembling resources and people across the globe.

Thibaut has been active in the mobile, telecom, software world for the past 10 years as an all-rounder from the research labs, to the telecom shelter, from core network to core OS, from photons to airwaves and from product management to community strategy.

In addition to his activities Thibaut has been heavily engaged in the migration of the mobile industry towards a more open and community led approach to development and innovation, especially active in developing the Eclipse and Android communities but also supporting operators and OEMs devise their developers program.
