

LAZIO, A NEVER-ENDING BOOK TO READ

FRANKFURTER BUCHMESSE

16 – 20 OCTOBER 2024
GUEST OF HONOUR ITALY

Italian Pavillon Hall 5.0 - Stand A44

The 22 Lazio publishers featured in this catalogue and attending the Frankfurter Buchmesse are just a page of a long, passionate and successful story.

Publishing in Lazio was born in Subiaco in 1465, with the first Italian printing house, a symbol of culture, knowledge and know-how, and nowadays Lazio is the second region in Italy for the number of companies and employees in the book industry. According to ISTAT data, Lazio in fact expresses 17.3% of national enterprises in the publishing sector (301 enterprises in absolute terms), a short distance from Lombardy (20.9% of the Italian total, with 362 enterprises), with 10 thousand printed titles for a total of 11.3 million copies, according to the data provided by the Italian Publishers Association.

Such numbers are proof of the strength and dynamism of a sector that not only is a fundamental part of a continuously growing business and production area, but it is also and above all a “service” aimed at citizens, a tool that fosters free information, the circulation of ideas and the social and cultural growth of our community. And this heritage is largely made up of small and medium-sized publishers, with marked specialisations in the various segments of the industry, effectively responding to the different demands of readers. Lazio Local Government invests on the strength of culture, on the power of books and on the vitality of the small and medium-sized publishing enterprises that promote culture, supporting them at local and, most importantly, national and international level.

The aim is promoting reading among young people and families, supporting digitisation, innovation and internationalisation, supporting especially small and medium-sized realities that do not have the strength of large groups and activating positive synergies between all the living and healthy forces in a sector that is the flagship of Lazio.

All this to grant the talent, ideas and cultural projects of our region the opportunity to become successful stories and books. Here, at the Italian Pavillon - Hall 5.0 - Stand A44, you can see some of the fruits of it all.
